OUR SCHOOLS.

In submitting this report of the schools of the town for the past year, it gives your Superintendent much pleasure to state that the results which have been accomplished have been very gratifying to him; and I am free to say that during my experience in school work it has never been my pleasure before to see the schools for an entire year pass off with as little friction as they have in Greenwood the past year.

Teachers, parents and scholars alike, are to be congratulated for the efforts which have been put forth to make the year's work a success. Harmony, which is one of the chief requisites of success in any school, has been the keynote to success in ours. No one has had any inclination to criticise or find fault with the teachers, but on the contrary, everyone has had a pleasant word for the schools, and although our good people may not have realized it, yet in those pleasant words of commendation they have bequeathed a priceless legacy to the educational interests of our town.

We all know how much easier it is to perform any duty and with how much more courage and determination we go about it if those for whom we are laboring show an appreciation of our efforts; on the other hand, how hard it is, and what an amount of dissatisfaction is ours, when our accomplishments, which, perchance, are the fruits of our most painstaking efforts, are received in an unappreciative and fault finding manner. This fact, which is true among all classes of people, is doubly true on the part of the teacher. His work is such as to demand for him the keenest sympathy of every person in the community in which he is laboring, and he must have it ere we see the best possible results.

We have seen several cases in the past, in which teachers have worked earnestly, patiently and conscientiously with their scholars, exhausting all the resources at their command, and yet have made absolute failures, simply because someone's petty notion had been fondled and fostered, as a result the tide had been turned against the school, when, if what there was truly commendable about those same teachers had been recognized, instead of their trivial faults being magnified their schools would have been marked successes.

We are aware that it is more natural to criticise than to commend, but if all interested in education would be less willing to magnify the teacher's faults and more willing to commend his virtues, they would encourage him and be of appreciable assistance to him in making his work a noble success.

CONCLUSION.

In conclusion, I wish to say that I consider the schools of our town in a prosperous condition, in a condition of advancement, and in order to have them continue to progress, teachers, parents, scholars and school officers must work together. Many things are essential to good schools, but one, at least, is imperative and that is harmony. Our schools are the safeguards of our civilization; upon them depend the progress of our nation, the safety of our government, the glory of our country and the prosperity and happiness of its citizens.

May we then, as citizens of a town noted for its interest in education, omit no opportunity of doing all in our power to provide our children with a system of education which shall be second to none in the State of Maine.

Respectfully submitted,

M. H. HARRINGTON, Superintendent.
